MONTHLY COMMENTARY

In February, increasing geopolitical tensions and, once again, central banks were the focus of attention on the global bond markets. While the European Central Bank (ECB) left its key interest rate unchanged for the time being, ECB President Christine Lagarde and leading ECB members signalled that risks are increasingly being viewed as more balanced, and that a persistently strong euro could dampen inflation. On the other side of the Atlantic, the Supreme Court of the United States ruled that certain tariffs imposed by the government were unlawful in part. President Donald Trump responded by introducing new global tariffs of up to 15% (for specific products over the next 150 days). From a market perspective, however, the escalating geopolitical tensions between the United States and Iran towards the end of the month proved even more significant. Amid concerns about a global escalation and somewhat weaker economic data overall, yields on euro and US bonds initially fell significantly towards the end of the month – by just under 20 basis points (bps) for five-year German Bunds and by almost 30 bps for US Treasuries with the same maturity. The fund price performed very well due to its aggressive duration. Due to the current focus on relatively high quality, the Fund was not overly affected by market nervousness (and rising risk premiums). The fall in interest rates led to profit-taking at the end of the month on government bonds, covered bonds and similar interest-rate derivatives, such as interest-rate futures and related options. The latter were expanded more significantly at the beginning of February due to favourable technical valuations.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY - CONTINUED

As part of the duration-reducing measures, the Fund selectively added corporate bonds into relative market weakness – with slightly rising yield premiums and thus still attractive absolute returns. As these purchases focused more on medium maturities (the belly of the yield curve), the current interest rate in the portfolio was increased (with slightly lower duration).

OPPORTUNITIES

- + Participate in global bond market growth.
- + Income can be generated from regular interest payments.
- + Active interest rate, currency and risk management (e.g. from the use of derivatives).

RISKS

- Country, credit and issuer liquidity risk. Also potential exchange rate risks. If securities are illiquid (i.e. thinly traded), there is a risk that it may either not be possible to sell the assets at all or only by accepting a significant discount on the sale price. ESG criteria can restrict the selection of target investments in terms of category and number, sometimes considerably.
- Investing in bonds may entail price risks, especially in case of rising interest rates on the capital markets.
- Where used, derivatives can have a greater negative impact on the fund value than would be the case if the assets were acquired directly. This can affect the fund's risk profile and volatility (tendency for the price to fluctuate).

Please read the Prospectus and particularly the RISK WARNINGS section and the specific annex of the subfund to understand the risks and benefits of this product.

INVESTOR PROFILE

CONSERVATIVE:

The fund is appropriate for conservative investors. Due to the composition of the net sub-fund assets, there is a moderate degree of risk but also a moderate degree of profit potential. The risks may consist in particular of currency risk, credit risk and price risk, as well as market interest rate risks.

INVESTMENT HORIZON:

RISK INDICATOR

Lower risk ← Higher risk

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
---	---	---	---	---	---	---

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 3 years. The actual risk can vary significantly if you cash in at an early stage and you may get back less. The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you. We have classified this product as 2 out of 7, which is a low risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a low level, and poor market conditions are very unlikely to impact our capacity to pay you. Unusual market conditions could arise, for example, due to currency, credit-worthiness, price, counterparty, liquidity and interest rate risks, as detailed in the sales prospectus.
